vide at the coming session of legislature, for primary reform, so that nominations may be made at the primaries. The object is to endeavor to do away to i great extent, the opportunities for boss rule and crooked work and chicanery in the selection of candidates. It is not to be disputed that the nearer the voter is to the nominations and the tess machinery that intervenes, the less possibility there is to defeat his wishes by placing $ Our line is larger than ever-$ men in nomination whom he does not desire. The original scheme of electing a president was by a convention of electors, who might vote for whomever they pleased. The people were presumed to elect the electors, who should elect the president. In form, and theoretically, the present plan follows the same line, but practically, the people vote to elect a president and do not consider the electors. The least possible machinery there is the better the voters will be satisfied. Josephine county's representtative, G. W. Colvig writes as follows $000 concering the proposed measure to the Oregonian:

"I am in favor of a law to give the voter at primary meetings an opportunity to express his preference for every officer elected, whether state, county or the choice of a political party thus expressed obligatory on the senator or representative-elect of such party, or only as letter of instruction or preferstates before framing a measure.
